SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 21, 1902,

A Chicago Tenser.

A Chicago man who lives in Goethe street gets off the car at Schiller street. two blocks away, because no conductor can understand his pronunciation of Goethe. "I had practiced on the pronunciation for a week," he says, "and I had the sound of the 'umlaut' down had the sound of the 'umlaut' down fine. I sprung it on the conductor the first evening. He looked at me blankly and replied, 'Huh?' I repeated it once or twice, and finally a great light broke over him. 'Oh, yes; you mean Gothe. Why didn't you say so?'

"The next evening the conductor called it Go-eeth. The third time up it was Go-ethe. Then there was a raw Irishman in charge of one of the trains who spoke of it as Go-tay, with the accent on the last syllable. One morning I left an order for my wife at the grocer's. He looked at me in silence for a minute after I had given our address. 'Oh, yes,' he said; 'you mean Gertie street.' The butcher calls it Gaytie, the laundryman pronounces it Gay-tuh, and the man who delivers coal alludes to it as Goth street.

"I have a woman friend who prides herself on her culture who speaks feelingly of Gutter street. But the devoted thoroughfare doesn't really 'get it in the neck' until you hear the janitor talk. He calls it Goitre."

A Strange Target. In "The Book of the Rifle" the Hon T. F. Freemantle tells the following amusing story apropos of accidents to

"Sir Henry Halford on one occasion—it was not a very clear day—was about to begin shooting at 1,000 yards and, thinking that the marker must now be ready for him to begin, asked him through the telephone, 'Are you all right?' The marker replied, "All right, sir, in a minute;' but, unjuckily, Sir Henry took 'All right, sir,' instead of the whole sentence and removed the telephone from his ear. He lay down and fired his shot, and on looking through the telescope to see where it had hit was horrified to see the marker with a perfectly white face staggering toward his shelter. He was intensely alarmed, and in a moment there came a ring at the telephone. 'What has happened? Are you badly hurt?' 'No, sir, I am not hurt; but I had a bucket of whitewash between my legs painting the target, and you put a builet into it and splashed it all up in my face."

A Poverty Stricken Queen.

Partly owing to the fact that she was "Sir Henry Halford on one occasion

Partly owing to the fact that she was wedded to an avaricious king and partly because she was generous with the little money allowed her Elizabeth of York, queen of Henry VII., spent but a small amount for dress. She was very often in debt, and the sums she spent were ridiculously small, 20 shillings ($5) being the greatest amount expended at any one time. Her gowns were mend-ed and turned, and new waists were made for them, as is shown by the record of bills paid to her tailor. These bills prove that she wore her clothes for a long time, for her gowns were obliged to be newly hemmed, and also that, though a princess of the great house of Plantagenet, she wore shoes costing but 24 cents, which were deco-rated with tin buckles!

East Indian Idols.

The images of the gods in India are not made by a separate caste, but the carpenters and masons respectively make the large wooden and stone idols set up in the temples, the potters the clay idols consumed in daily worship goldsmiths the little images in brass, copper, mixed metal and gold and silver that are always kept in private The East Indians regard an alloy of brass with five other metals gold, silver, iron, the and lead, making, with the copper and zine of the brass, a mixture of light metals—as a perfect alloy, and this is highly prized as a material for sacred images.

Read It in His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a contant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not besitted in hus. lame back, he did not hesitate in buy-ing a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though bore anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bettle the unbescable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by Richard Gibson, druggist.

Like a Drowning Man, Like a Drowning Man,

'Five years age a disease the dectors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Focons, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbel at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a fow bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the house of the strain digestive lulees and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stemach trouble. For sale by E. S. Leadbeater & Sons.
